(25961) Conti = 2001 FL₂₂

Discovered 2001 Mar 21 by the Lowell Observatory Near-Earth Object Search at the Anderson Mesa Station.

Peter S. Conti (b. 1934) is an astronomer known for his studies of hot luminous stars, such as O-type, Wolf-Rayet, and Luminous Blue Variables, and the evolutionary connection between them.

 $\begin{array}{ccc} \text{Semimajor axis} & 2.57 \text{ AU} \\ \text{Eccentricity} & 0.063 \\ \text{Inclination} & 3.99 \text{ deg} \\ \text{Diameter} & 2.5-3.5 \text{ km} \end{array}$